A BRITISH FISHING FLEET IS SHELLED BY CZAR'S GUNS

Baltic Squadron's Extraordinary Act in the North Sea.

The Incident Arouses Indignation Through all England.

Government Urged to Demand an Apology and Reparation--Deed Regarded as an Act of War--Japs and Russians Preparing for Battle--Official Figures on the Losses.

Washington, Oct. 24.—None but expressions of horror and amazement at the unprecedented occurrence in the North sea is heard in official circles here and although it is charitably assumed that the Russian Baltic fleet upon innocent and peaceable fishermen was the result of extreme panic and terror, some officials cannot refrain from calling attention to the fact that this latest outrage is in line with the policy which Russia has pursued throughout this war, that of utter indifference and reckless disregard of the rights of neutral nations.

Hull, Eng., Oct. 24.—(Bulletin).—Only one vessel arrived this morning from the fishing rendezvous in the North sea. The latest reports of the affair show four Russian vessels were concerned, and fired 200 shots at the British vessels at a range of a quarter of a mile. The Mayor of Hull telegraphed Premier Balfour: "The greatest indignation prevails here as the result of the unprecedented and wanton attack on the Hull fishing fleet, resulting in the loss of lives. We appeal to the government to take the speediest and strongest measures possible to ensure full redress, and complete security against further Russian outrages."

The owners of the carriers attached to the fleet said this morning there were fifty vessels near the spot, where the affair occurred. Six of these are still not reported. No news has been received of the Wren.

Crowds are examining the Mino and Moulmein, which arrived here badly damaged from the Russian shots. Both vessels present the appearance of having undergone a heavy bombardment.

London, Oct. 24.—Lord Landsdowne, the secretary for foreign affairs received the news of the sinking of the British fishing vessels by the Russian fleet at his country home in Wiltshire. He will return to London this afternoon. The Russian ambassador is now in Germany, but has started for London. It is believed England's demands in the matter will not be formulated before tonight.

London, Oct. 24.—At 12:15 o'clock to day the Russian Baltic fleet passed Alderney. Alderney is an island in the British channel off the coast of Normandy, and about ten miles west of Cape Hague.

Gibraltar, Oct. 24.—The British channel fleet arrived off here this morning. An officer immediately boarded the flagship with dispatches.

Portsmouth, Eng., Oct. 24.—A strong fleet of British warships, including the Good Hope, Drake, Narcissus, Eclipse, Powerful, Cumberland, King Alfred, Europa, Suaritate, Canopus and Imperieuse, together with several torpedo destroyers is here, ready to sail on a few hours' notice. There is great eagerness among the officers and crews for orders, but these have not yet arrived.

Paris, Oct. 24.—An attache of the Russian embassy said: "The probable explanation of the fleet's action is that the fishermen insisted on forcing the Russian fire. The admiral was compelled to force respect for Russia. Russia will offer indemnities to the families of the fishermen. This, it is expected, will prove acceptable to England."

London, Oct. 24.—After a conference at the foreign office Lord Landsdowne sent a strongly worded message to Sir Chas. Hardinge, British ambassador at St. Petersburg, for delivery to the Russian government today.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 24.—Count Lambsdorff, minister of foreign affairs, and Sir Chas. Hardinge, British ambassador, held a lengthy conference this afternoon.

Hull, Oct. 24.—The French government takes a moderate view of the affair in the North Sea and expressed the belief that the Russian fleet was haunted with the idea of possible attack and mistook the mysterious forms of the fishing fleet in the darkness of the night for Japanese boats.

Hull, Eng., Oct. 24.—It is now stated by witnesses of the firing on the British fishing fleet that the Russians fired blank shots before loaded shells were used. The Russian fleet was sixteen miles outside the regular North sea course when it ran among the Britishers.

London, Oct. 24.—Joseph Smith, the son of Captain George Smith, of the Crane, who was killed by one of the shots fired by the Russian squadron at the fishing fleet and two skippers of the fleet, arrived in London this morning and drove at once to the foreign office. Young Smith is still greatly shaken as the result of his awful experience. It was his first voyage.

Kuropatkin Reports. St. Petersburg, Oct. 24.—Gen. Kuropatkin reports this morning that matters at the front are still comparatively quiet. He says: "Saturday night and Sunday passed quietly. Russian volunteers harassed the enemy. The Japanese attempted an attack on our outposts, but were repulsed."

An official dispatch received today states the armies are within rifle shot of each other. General Kuropatkin, according to this dispatch has issued an order for a renewal of the offensive.

STOESSEL Reports on Desperate Condition of Russians at Port Arthur.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 24.—A dispatch received today from General Stoessel in command at Port Arthur, Oct. 20 gives details of the desperate situation there. The dispatch reads:

"The chief suffering among members of the garrison is due to the lack of warm clothing. The soldiers are manufacturing for themselves shoes of all kinds of material. There is still an immense quantity of flour, but only a little horse meat. The garrison is determined to fight to the last man and the last drop of blood."

General Stoessel hopes Kuropatkin will arrive in time to aid them.

EMBASSY

Of the Czar at London Issues Statement Regarding the North Sea Incident Monday.

London, O., Oct. 24.—The Russian embassy today issued the following statement regarding the North Sea incident: "Admiral Rodzestvensky was undoubtedly not responsible for the order to fire as he had gone ahead with the first section of the fleet."

"The fact probably is that the fleet did not see the lights of the fishing fleet and mistook the rocket fired from one of the trawlers for a hostile signal."

"The fact that the fleet steamed away after firing was probably due to the belief that no damage had been done."

"We are compelled to await news from St. Petersburg before we can explain the matter fully. No news has yet arrived."

Actor Terry Weds. London, Oct. 24.—Edward Terry, the actor, was today married to the widow of the late theatrical manager, Augustus Harris.

Thorverton Church, Devon, England, was recently used as a storehouse for whisky which had been taken from the village inn during a fire.

LOSSES

To Russians in Shalke River Battle Enormous--Official Figures.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 24.—The following is the official list of Russians killed and wounded in the fight at Shalke river from October 11 to October 19, given out today:

Killed: One general, 227 officers; 17,650 men; wounded, three generals, 302 officers, 24,730 men; guns lost 91; guns taken 37. Russians captured 302 prisoners and lost 187 taken prisoners by the Japanese.

Rome Oct. 24.—The Giornale Di Roma has a dispatch from Tokyo stating that the Japanese losses at Ten Tai have been 8,260 men killed and 26,000 wounded. The Japanese are said to have lost in all 31 guns.

Washington, Oct. 24.—The Japanese legation received the following cablegram from Tokyo regarding the results of the recent battle of Shalke river:

"Marshal Oyama reports further investigation shows that the number of Russian prisoners taken reached 709, corpses and found on battle field 13,333 where of 5,290 belonging to the right army, 5,603 to the left and 2,530 to the central."

ENGLISH PAPERS COMMENT.

London, Oct. 24.—The Westminster Gazette urges English officials not to lose their heads because the Russian commanders did.

The Pall Mall Gazette opposes the Standard's idea. It says: "It would not do to ask the Czar to recall his lunatic fleet, because that would mean war. But it should be shepherded by the remainder of the voyage, by British warships, with orders to repeat any further attack on British shipping."

The Globe has the following to say on the matter: "Unless reparation should be complete and immediate the fleet should be asked to give further proof of its heroism and efficiency under a different condition."

London, Oct. 24.—The Hull fishing fleet has been attacked by the Russian Baltic squadron, commanded by Vice Admiral Rojestvensky. The official information at hand is that shortly after midnight Friday the Russian squadron fell in with the Hull fishing fleet in the North sea. The first portion of the fishing fleet passed safely. Then the Russian ships turned their searchlights on the British vessels for some time, and a little later opened fire. The steam trawler Crane was sunk and the decapitated bodies of her skipper and mate have been brought to Hull. The boatswain and other members of the crew are seriously wounded. The steam trawlers Moulmein and Mino have arrived at Hull seriously damaged by shots. The latter having 16 holes in her hull. It is feared that other damage was done to trawlers and that at least one more was lost with all hands.

No motive can be assigned for the extraordinary procedure of the Russian warships. The news created a big sensation and indignation in Hull. The Moulmein arrived with her flag at half mast. Her skipper states that the trawlers were fishing about 220 miles east of north of Spurn Head at 1 o'clock Saturday morning, the weather being hazy, when the outlines of several vessels, apparently warships, sailing in a line, were dimly seen. Whilst the crew were watching the warships, searchlights were flashed upon them, in the glare of which the Moulmein's crew observed what they took to be torpedo boats approaching, apparently with the intention of boarding the Moulmein. They steamed away, however, and soon the fishermen were horrified to find they were being fired upon. First one and then another trawler was struck by flying shot. What seemed to be a round shot went through the Moulmein's galley. The Mino, lying near by, also was struck with many shots, but fortunately the damage was above her water line and none of her crew was struck. The bombardment lasted about 20 minutes. The fleet sailed southward.

From interviews with members of trawler crews it appears that the admiral of the fishing fleet burned green flares to show that they were harmless fishermen, but these signals were ignored. Eighteen injured men are in Hull under treatment. One trawler, the Wren, is missing, and it is feared she has been sunk. There were many distressing scenes at Hull, relatives seeking after friends. There is a rumor that the great northern fishing fleet was also chased by the Russians.

All England Aroused. No official information has been obtained of the firing by the Russian war vessels upon a British fishing fleet in the North sea. The first reports of the affair reached in London were regarded as almost incredible. When, however, cumulative evidence no longer left doubt of the general accuracy of the reports, astonishment became bewildered amazement as to what possible motive could have led Russian officers into such an extraordinary and inexplicable course of action, which, unless a satisfactory explanation is immediately forthcoming, could only be regarded as an act of war. This is the view taken editorially by all the papers. The worst feature of the story as viewed here is the heartlessness displayed by the Russian fleet in stealing away without taking the trouble to ascertain even whether their fire had inflicted any damage and without any effort to rescue the victims.

Attack a Mystery. London, Oct. 24.—The steam cutter Magpie, belonging to the Gamecock trawler fleet, which was fired on by the Russian Baltic fleet, arrived in the Thames. Her captain, Parker, confirmed the details of the story received from Hull. He says: "Friday night there were about 40 vessels of the Gamecock fleet fishing in the sea. It was a nasty, drizzling night. We spread over an area of some miles. Our admiral had just previously signalled by rockets and colored lights the fishing direction for the night. Whether that had anything to do with what followed I do not know; the whole thing is a mystery."

JAP LEFT

Reported Turned by Russians and Battle is Raging--Japs Have Evacuated Shalke.

Mukden, Oct. 24.—Rumors are afloat that one of the Russian western corps has gone around the Japanese left and is now abreast of Liaoyang, but the statement lacks confirmation. The Russians bombarded the village of Shalke on Oct. 20 and 21, but fired only about 60 rounds. After the evacuation of Shalke village by the Japanese they were compelled to abandon the station to avoid a flank attack from the village.

The advance guard of the Japanese, after evacuating Shalke, has gone south. About two miles below Shalke the Russians discovered extensive intrenchments. The Russian siege guns are beginning to come into action. There was considerable artillery firing Oct. 19 to Oct. 21. The Japanese have evacuated Shalke, but it would be premature to regard this as the beginning of a general retreat. It appears rather to be a strategic move, so as to reinforce and realign their greatly broken front.

The two hostile armies are kept in touch with one another, holding the positions they occupied when the big battle ended. There is no evidence that the Russian army will rush north, as was the case after the battle of Liaoyang. In fact, the Russians have another line of defenses to fall back on in the event that they are forced out of their present positions. During the last few days there has been frequent artillery fire, occasional infantry attacks and daily clashes between outposts and scouts. Another big battle is expected shortly, as the weather is already turning cold. It will be impracticable for the two armies to winter in their present positions midway between Mukden and Liaoyang.

Russian Dead and Wounded.

Tokyo, Oct. 24.—Manchurian headquarters, replying by telegraph, says that the number of Russian dead found on the battlefield and interred up to Oct. 22 makes a total of 10,550. Upon this total Russian casualties are estimated to exceed 80,000. The Japanese captured a total of 45 guns during the Shalke operations. The report of the Manchurian headquarters follows: "The enumerated spoils, etc., of the battle of Shalke follows: Prisoners, about 500; enemy's dead left on the field, 10,550; 15 guns, 37 ammunition wagons, 6,520 shells, 5,174 rifles, 78,000 small arms, ammunition, number of swords, bayonets, axes and tents. Besides the enumerated property the unaccounted property extending over 25 miles, will reach an enormous quantity. The enemy's dead is being interred with military honors. According to the enemy's dead the Russian casualties are estimated at over 60,000."

Sakharoff Reports. St. Petersburg, Oct. 24.—Lieutenant General Sakharoff, in a dispatch dated Oct. 22, says: "There is no serious fighting, but there has been a desultory artillery duel throughout the day. The Russian batteries bombarded the portion of the village of Linshing occupied by the Japanese as well as Shalke station and the village of Janung, while the enemy bombarded the portion of Linshing and the village of Shalke."

Official Opinion. Washington, Oct. 24.—The state department officials here were asked to say that the firing in the North sea was a mistake, or a mistake for which the Russian government will make a prompt reparation and apology. It was due to questioning, they think, to a misapprehension as to the character of the vessels fired on. The Russian admiral probably thinking they were submarine boats belonging to Japan.

HOT DISPUTE OVER POLITICS WEST VIRGINIA

Ended in Tragedy Near Huntington.

Two Men Fell in Bloody Fray After Attending Church Sunday. Dealers Arrested.

Huntington, W. Va., Oct. 21.—With in half an hour after the benediction had been pronounced at the close of services in the little church near Mill Creek, on the Big Sandy river, one man who had listened to the sermon was dead and another was fatally stabbed. The tragedy was the result of a political argument in which half a dozen members of the congregation engaged after leaving the church. The dead man is William Kennedy, 39, leaves a wife and family. The dying, Henry Wellman, stabbed during the fight, Ralph Wellman, who had taken a leading part in the dispute, is alleged to have drawn a revolver and shot Kennedy, who died within a few minutes. A moment after the shot was fired Henry Wellman, a relative of the murdered man, received a knife thrust and fell with blood streaming from a wound in his chest. The authorities were notified, and Ralph Wellman, Foster Wright and John Shrewsbury were placed under arrest.

Lottery Dealers Arrested.

New York, Oct. 24.—In a series of raids representatives of District Attorney Jerome's office seized $100,000 worth of lottery tickets here and arrested six men and one woman, all residents of the lower east side. The prisoners are also charged with selling lottery tickets at wholesale to ticket peddlers. Most of them ostensibly sold "steamship tickets," though one advertised his place of business as a real estate office, and another, sold four kinds of tickets, representing foreign lotteries. The tickets of two German lotteries, which are legalized by the German government, are said to be brought into this country by stewards of steamships and smuggled to the agents.

MR. CARNEGIE

Says It Would be a Mistake to Call a Peace Conference at the Present Time.

New York, Oct. 24.—The Right Hon. John Morley, the English statesman and author, has arrived on the steamer Celtic. During his stay in this city Mr. Morley will be Andrew Carnegie's guest. On the question of calling a peace conference Mr. Carnegie said: "Let us not call a peace conference now when two nations are struggling in awful battle. Such an action of President Roosevelt would be a great error, and would not be looked upon with favor in Europe."

In connection with the murder six men belonging to a party of gypsies were arrested by Chief of Police Carter of Phoenixville and several constables, and after an exciting time were lodged in jail at that place. Washington, Oct. 24.—The annual report of the governor of Arizona to the secretary of the interior says the territory's population has increased considerably, and that the total population now is between 167,000 and 170,000. It expresses a desire on the part of the people of Arizona for statehood, but says that, "finding themselves confronted with a plan to unite their territory with New Mexico, the people of Arizona have protested vigorously and will continue to do so until they have defeated this repugnant scheme. They would desire that their commonwealth remain a territory indefinitely rather than to be joined with New Mexico."

DEMOCRATIC ORGANIZATION IS MORE COMPLETE

Chairman Taggart Issues a Statement.

IN SURE DEMOCRATIC COLUMN

Are Placed New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Md., Del., W. Va., and Indiana.

New York, Oct. 24.—A statement was given out by the Democratic national committee, after a consultation between Thomas Taggart, chairman; William F. Sheehan, chairman of the executive committee, and Delancey Nicoll, vice chairman for the east. It says in part: "Our canvass shows that our organization is now more complete and effective than ever before in the history of the party. Our canvass also shows that we shall certainly carry by good majorities the states of New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Maryland, Delaware, West Virginia and Indiana, and that in addition to these electoral votes we shall have the majority if not all of the electoral votes of the Rocky mountain states. It is impossible at this juncture to predict the outcome in Wisconsin. Illinois must also be classed in the doubtful column, for although at this moment our canvass there is imperfect, it is sufficiently advanced to indicate an unmistakable Republican defection."

Socialist Demonstration.

New York, Oct. 24.—Eugene V. Debs, the presidential candidate of the Socialist party, addressed a meeting which was held here in the Academy of Music to ratify his nomination. The hall was crowded and Mr. Debs was given an enthusiastic reception. He said that the economic freedom of the laboring class hinges upon the showing which the Socialists may make in the coming election, and declared that the enmity between the leisure class and the laboring class is increasing. "The so-called middle class will cease to exist as soon as the laboring class finds out that it has had enough of capitalism," said Mr. Debs. "The capitalist is bound to attack the so-called middle class, and when he gets through with you, gentlemen of the middle class, you will be ready for us."

Early in the day he addressed meetings at Wheeling and Benwood, W. Va., and Bridgeport, O. His route was over the Cleveland, Lorain and Wheeling road.

Eighteen Persons Injured.

Worcester, Mass., Oct. 24.—In a rear-end collision between two trolley cars on the Westboro and Marlboro street railway, two and one-half miles west of Westboro, 18 people were injured. It is thought that all of the injured will recover. Slippery rails are accountable for the accident. A Worcester Consolidated street railway car was being sent to Worcester for repairs, and when on a hill the car kicked. Before the motorman could get control of it the car was running backward down the hill. At the foot of the hill, on a curve, it was met by the regular car from Marlboro to Worcester, which was making good speed to climb the hill. The cars crashed together with terrific force.

Double Tragedy.

Elgin, Ill., Oct. 24.—Dragging his wife from the carriage in which they were riding, Frank Loos, a teamster of this city, shot and instantly killed the woman and then shot himself through the head. He was taken to a hospital and is believed to be improving.

The progressive policy of the Ameer includes the appointment of women doctors at Sabul and the use of electric power in his gun factory.

SKIN DISEASES

Altoona, Pa., June 20, 1903.
I was afflicted with Tetter in bad shape. It would appear in blotches as large as my hand, a yellowish color, and scale off. You can imagine how offensive it was. For twelve years I was afflicted with this trouble. At night it was a case of scratch and many times to rest at all. Seeing the good the medicine was doing, a friend who was taking it for leprosy, I commenced it, and as a result the eruption began to dry up and disappear, and to-day I am practically a well man. Only two tiny spots are left on the elbow and arm where once the whole body was affected. I have every confidence in the medicine, and feel sure that in a short time these two remaining spots will disappear. S. S. S. is certainly a great blood purifier, and has done me a world of good. I am grateful for what it has accomplished, and to test what I have said will lead others who are similarly afflicted to take the remedy and obtain the same good results that I have.

125 East Fifth Ave. JOHN F. LEAR.

While washes, soaps, salves and powders relieve temporarily, they do not reach the real cause of the disease. The blood must be purified before the cure is permanent. S. S. S. contains no poisons, arsenic or mineral of any description, but is guaranteed purely vegetable.

Send for our book on the skin and its diseases, which is mailed free. Our physicians will cheerfully advise without charge any who write us about their case.

GIRL GARDENERS.

Great Demand For Scientifically Trained Women Horticulturists.

The vast country place of a New York millionaire has a woman superintendent, Miss Margaret Smith. The estate is near Katonah, N. J. Miss Smith began life as a factory hand in a silk mill; today she receives $5,000 a year and has charge of 100 workmen who, under her direction, till and beautify the 2,500 acres of this great farm. Every morning Miss Smith rides on horseback over her domain, sees what is to be done outdoors, then returns and awaits in her office the report of her orderlies, to learn what supplies are needed in the many departments. She keeps track of every dollar spent on that 2,500 acre farm and each month returns to her employer the balance sheet of outgo and income. Beyond glancing over that sheet and entertaining guest parties in his rural palace the millionaire owner has little personal connection with the place. All details are looked after by the energetic and clear headed Miss Smith.

The secret of her success is that when only a mill girl she had aspirations for knowledge which would fit her on her own account to do something better paid for than factory work. She herself says she gained her present place by "hard work and the will to succeed." From her wages in the silk mill she saved enough money to take a course in a business college, also to give her sister Kate the benefit of instruction in a cooking school. Miss Kate is now the housekeeper at the millionaire's country home.

There are numerous such posts as Miss Smith holds waiting for the women who can fill them. Now, too, there is opportunity for women to prepare themselves scientifically to be either estate superintendents or to operate farms, gardens and ranches of their own. The logic of events has demonstrated that a so called education of Latin, Greek and ancient history fits a student neither mentally, morally nor physically to cope with the conditions of today. Moral and industrial training is the crying need.

For the girl who must earn her own living for any girl, in fact—there is perhaps no field so promising as that which opens to one scientifically trained in rural occupations. Amherst Agricultural college admits both sexes, and this year the first girl has been regularly graduated. She is Miss Esther Cushman.

More remunerative than a government clerkship, however, will be found the practical personal conducting of farms and gardens by trained women agriculturists. It is better to lay a foundation of general knowledge of farming, then on that to build one or more specialties, such as dairying, floriculture, beekeeping, poultry raising or fruit and vegetable gardening. Floriculture and beekeeping, dairying and poultry raising, for instance, may be combined with profit.

Amherst Agricultural college has a number of other girl students in its various departments. One is taking the full all around course, expecting to personally operate a live stock ranch of her own in the west. She says she intends to learn to run a farm engine, work at a forge, also to do land surveying, besides getting knowledge of botany and geology. All this knowledge is today needful for the skilled agriculturist. The rule of thumb in farming operations works no longer. It and that other rule that among a family of sons the stupid one was good enough to be a farmer have landed in bankruptcy a considerable proportion of the rural population in the older parts of the country.

An arrangement goes into effect this autumn whereby a preliminary agricultural course of two years will be added to the Simons Industrial Female college in Boston. Young women who have passed this course will then be admitted to the advanced classes at Amherst. Thus Boston city girls of small means will be enabled to continue their course at home. Landscape gardening is another branch of rural occupation which commands itself specially to women. Among those already successful in this field is Miss Beatrice James.

In the state universities many girl students are taking the agricultural courses. It is not enough, either, that a girl should put on a fantastic white sunbonnet and sit upon a stool beside a cow and be photographed. She must learn not only to milk that cow scientifically, but also with her own hands to feed and take care of the cow.

AMUSEMENTS

Tuesday, Oct. 25, "A Little Outcast," Friday, Oct. 28, "Buster Brown."

A LITTLE OUTCAST.

"A Little Outcast" opens in a blaze of glory at the Auditorium Tuesday October 25. The company presenting this popular melodrama, the present season includes Fom M. Krenner, C. A. Andersen, D. A. Wilkes, Edward Browning, Harry Lorraine, Joseph Ward, Richard Lawrence, Lena De Lisle, Beatrice Shevbrooke, Esther Lane, Little Edna and Master Bobby Young.

Clever vaudeville artists introduce specialties throughout the production. The play is well written and the enthusiasm accorded it affords a convincing argument that melodrama, properly staged and produced, is the most popular form of theatrical amusement. "A Little Outcast" is the most beautiful and elaborate story of New York life ever staged, all phases of it being presented, ranging from ultra fashionable mansions to the lowest hovels of crime. The plot is a strange one and reads like a page from one of Victor Hugo's novels in its weird situations and thrilling climaxes. There are scenes in "A Little Outcast" which fairly take one's breath away and the enthusiasm with which the best critics from New York to San Francisco have received it has gained no other play of the season. Among the scenic representations are views of a bizarre Chinese restaurant in Pell street, with its half hidden alcoves for opium smokers, and its Oriental colorings and shaded lights, Cooper Union, Five Points, a panoramic view of the Battery at night, a fashionable woman's boudoir, a broker's office in Wall street, and the great duel in the water off Government Pier, with the thrilling rescue by the police in an electric launch.

"BUSTER BROWN."

"Buster Brown" is, in many ways, very different from the average musical entertainment. In the first place the leading comedian is 24 inches tall. In the second place, the comedians are said to be able to get more real four-ply fun out of their characters than any others in the business. The very diminutive comedian is a young man whose stage life is just two seasons old. He is what theatrical people call "a find." He is a natural comedian. The ability to make people laugh was born in him and his success in this line is, at the end of the second season, far greater than most comedians who have spent years in studying the art. Master Giovanni plays the title role, "Buster Brown," the irrepressible small boy made famous by R. F. Outcall in the comic supplement of a New York paper. Buster gets everybody and everything into trouble, and yet always manages to come out of the mess himself, with a smile serene and innocent. His companion in roguery is Tige, the dog. Auditorium next Friday night, Oct. 28.

SOUTHERN THEATRE TICKETS.

Arrangements have just been made by the Columbus, Buckeye Lake and Newark traction company with the management of the Great Southern Theatre in Columbus whereby Theatre tickets may be obtained at the Newark office without extra cost. Heretofore Newark patrons of the Southern have had to wire or send to Columbus for tickets, but to accommodate patrons of the interurban, the traction company will hereafter provide tickets to all who apply at the company's office on North Park Place.

Ethel Barrymore will present "Sunday" at the Great Southern next Friday and Saturday nights, with Saturday matinee. Seats will be ready on Wednesday morning. Miss Barrymore is said to have secured a fitting role in her new London success called "Sunday." The type is of the Pret Harle style, a girl brought up in a Western mining camp whose fortunes take her to London to visit her father's family. "To analyze the charm of an actress like Ethel Barrymore is a little embarrassing," says the London Times, "but we must stifle our delicacy and declare that her charm is compounded, of absolute naturalness, girlish innocence, a kitten-like and remarkable beauty of face and form."

EMBROIDERED XMAS GIFTS.

Now is the Time to Make Them For Your Friends.

Some of the prettiest Christmas gifts are embroidered, and if at the last moment you prize them and find them beyond your means you will have only yourself to blame.

Take the picture frame, for instance, a section of which is herewith illustrated. It is the simplest thing in the world to make. The design, the Empire bee, is repeated regularly in two tones of golden brown on a ground of deep cream. The stitch is the simple cross stitch.

EMBROIDERED WORK BOX.

of our grandmothers' samples worked with silk on coarse canvas.

The workbox is more elaborate. It is made of pale blue silk, pink baby ribbon and pink embroidery in a charming pompadour effect.

The foundation is made of cardboard, the edges carefully overcast with shoe thread and fastened together firmly. The handle of heavy straw braid is secured by means of paper fasteners. Then each part is carefully covered with the pale blue silk. On this the narrow pale pink ribbon strips are sewed, and they appear to be held down by a vine design of green leaves and tiny rosebuds embroidered in colored silks. The dotted effect is gained by embroidered pin dots of pink silk. A little sachet powder should be scattered under the silk covering.

A very beautiful present is a linen robe inlaid with shiny medallions and heavy white linen embroidery. This does not take as long to make as one would fancy, and the sections may be bought already stamped at any embroidery shop.

The smartest and newest thing in embroidery, however, is the square overmantel pieces for boudoir or drawing room.

Cushions, of course, are always popular gifts, and the newest of these are worked all over in a conventional pattern done in cross stitch to imitate tapestry. I have seen two pillows representing the family coat of arms done in this way.

Initial handkerchiefs with a narrow edging of valenciennes lace are always dainty, and no one can have too many of them.

Turnover collars and cuffs are smart worked in delft blue on cream or in dull red or old rose on the same.

A centerpiece composed of shaded cherries and their cream white blossoms and brown stems is charming on the pale green linen, with a button-hole border done in cream white.

The ordinary hosiery thread ribbed low neck sleeveless vest may be made into a thing of beauty by the addition of an upper section and straps of valenciennes lace and open-work embroidery run through with pink ribbon.

Don't forget embroidered garters with tiny chiffon rosettes.

Pincushions embroidered in rosebuds or forget-me-nots to match the toilet table are also always appreciated.

In fact, embroidery presents a larger field for moderate priced Christmas presents than anything else.

By order of president A. C. DAVIS.

The Better Candidate for Auditor.

Do the people of Licking County want a sane man and a properly qualified man to fill the office of County Auditor? If so, there is only one of the two leading party candidates who possesses these requirements and that candidate is Clement L. Riley. The office of Auditor is the most important in many respects of any in the Court House. In that office the books and accounts of the county's receipts and expenditures are kept, and every citizen is vitally interested in having these books and accounts kept accurately correct. Mr. Riley's ability for discharging these duties is eminently superior to that of his Republican opponent. Especially his BUSINESS RECORD is so much superior to that of the Republican candidate, that the people should allow no mistake to be made, and vote for the proper man to fill the office of Auditor.

"ANCIENT HISTORY"

How Differently it is Applied to a Democratic or Republican Candidate.

Five years ago is "ancient history," says the American Tribune in its labored effort to defend the action of Smith Redman, who led that bolting delegation in 1899, which M. L. Smyser aided to foist upon the district caucus in the conspiracy to unseat and disfranchise the regular delegates.

But thirteen years ago is not ancient history in that paper's assaults on Clement L. Riley wherein it harps about a convention of the old Peoples Party putting his name on their ticket for clerk of the court back in the year 1891.

The A-T's ancient history excuse in its defense of that piece of political trickery on the part of Redman, aided by Smyser, will not go down with the numerous Licking county Republicans who have memories longer than five years.

If thirteen years is not "ancient history" when applied to an incident in the career of a young Democrat, how can five years be "ancient history" when applied to two old political stagers like Smyser and Redman?

Scheme to Get Democrats Throw Their Votes Away.

Information comes to the Advocate that certain Republicans of the city are very busy urging Democrats to vote the Socialist ticket. This is an old time trick resorted to by the enemies of Democracy for the purpose of getting Democrats to throw their votes away. It is certainly not very likely that any Democrats will be deceived by such a transparent scheme as this. Every Democrat knows, or should know, that a vote for the Socialist ticket means half a vote for Roosevelt, for it can have no other effect in this count.

If any man wants to vote the Socialist ticket because he belongs to that party let him do so. It is his right. But let no Democrat be fooled into voting that ticket by Republican persuasion.

In a word, fellow Democrats, do not be fooled into throwing your votes away by any such trick as that.

Do You Want Them?

The Republicans are now taking another tack on the Philippine question. In order to account for their unwillingness to make the Filipinos any promise of independence at any time whatsoever, they are beginning to say that the Philippine natives do not want independence, but that what they desire most is to become a part of the American republic. In this connection the Republican organs are now quoting W. N. Swartout of Manila, who was a Philippine delegate to the St. Louis convention, who favors the admission of the Philippines to the Union under a territorial form of government.

Such talk by no means improves the Republican position. It is probably true that some intelligent Filipinos and a number of American speculators resident in the island, and army contractors in this country, desire to have the Philippines permanently annexed to the United States. But, granting even that the desire for annexation is unanimous in the islands, the question remains before us: Do we want these 8,000,000 alien brown men as full-fledged fellow-citizens? Do we want to admit the islands as a territory or state of the Union? Are we willing that vital legislation by congress should be decided perhaps by the vote of representatives of this mixture of Oriental civilization and barbarism? Are we willing that the President of the United States should be perhaps chosen by the votes of the Philippines in the electoral college?

It has not been demonstrated that any great number of Filipinos desire any relationship with our government. The manner in which the natives have sacrificed their lives and property in order to prevent "benevolent assimilation" by this country would certainly indicate that they are not over-anxious to avail themselves of the American institutions promised by our war of conquest. But, even if every brother's son of this country entertains American citizenship as the climax of his ambition, there is no reason prompting us to accede to their wishes while there are numberless reasons requiring that we should go no farther in their behalf than to assist them in the preliminary work of self-government and establish their independence as the first republic of Asia.

The Full Dinner Pail.

Not a word has been heard on the stump thus far about the "full dinner pail." Democrats are not disposed to emit any "calamity howls," but they are pointing to the fact that labor conditions are as bad for the laborer at many points as they were in 1892 and worse at some. Mr. Bryan has pointed out in his tour of Indiana industrial centers that at several places it is the "full coffee pot" that Republicans orators talk about, and he has added in his own semi-humorous way that before another campaign rolls around they will be talking about the "full water pitcher."

Critical investigation by an expert in Cleveland, Cincinnati, Pittsburg, Toledo, Youngstown, St. Louis and Kansas City reveals the fact that there are many empty dinner pails, thanks to the high tariff and the trusts, and that there is by no means enough "prosperity" to go around. In Kansas City the beef trust is robbing the cattle raiser and the consumer of beef at the same time.

Smyser, the candidate of a minority faction for Congress, promises to run behind his ticket in other counties besides Licking. The friends of Hanna who know the late Senator's real opinion of Smyser, are quietly but effectively working against him in a number of localities in the district.

No doubt the administration was given a chill by the report that some dissatisfied citizens of Panama had armed themselves and invaded the canal zone. The marines there were hurriedly sent on a scout, while a dispatch boat was rushed to sea with orders for the Pacific squadron. It is now reported that the trouble was occasioned by some citizens of Colombia invading Panama. If this is true the fact may still make us trouble, as we will no doubt undertake the duty of removing the intruders in case they promise annoyance to the toy republic which we established for our own purposes. It is evident that the Panama ghost will not down, and it is peculiarly appropriate that it should make its appearance just at this time, when its presence is least desired by the administration people.

CORONER'S BILLS

Legge and His Friends Are Held Up by the Commissioners—Dr. Becoming Indignant.

Each day of the Licking county campaign makes it more and more certain that Joseph Brownfield will be the next commissioner to succeed John Lambert, who is a candidate for reelection.

There are several causes contributing to this inevitable result. Among them may be mentioned Mr. Brownfield's genial personality, and well known business ability and honesty.

But here is another cause which will materially aid in encompassing Lambert's defeat, and that is his unreasonable and absolutely indefensible antagonism to Dr. C. F. Legge, the Republican coroner of Licking county, at the instance of Commissioner Graham, the man who dictates the action of the present solid Republican board of county commissioners.

Lambert has been a tool of Graham's ever since the latter took his place on the board, and at all times does Graham's bidding. T. C. Jure is the new member and of course has not had enough experience to successfully oppose his two colleagues, even if he had the disposition.

Dr. Legge is a conscientious and capable official, and has never charged exorbitant fees for his services, often times in fact making charges considered.

Distress After Eating

Nausea between meals, belching, vomiting, flatulence, fits of nervous headache, pain in the stomach, are all symptoms of dyspepsia, and the longer it is neglected the harder it is to cure it.

Hood's Sarsaparilla and Pills

Radically and permanently cure it—strengthen and tone the stomach and other digestive organs for the natural performance of their functions.

Accept no substitute for Hood's. "I had dyspepsia twenty-five years and took different medicines but got no help until I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. Have taken four bottles of this medicine and can now eat almost anything, sleep well, have no cramps in my stomach, no burning and no distress." MRS. WILLIAM G. BARRETT, 14 Olney St., Providence, R. I. Hood's Sarsaparilla promises to cure and keeps the promise.

ready below those allowed him by law, and yet Graham has at all times antagonized him and "held up" bills presented by the coroner and rightfully due him. At present Dr. Legge has bills for the last seven or eight cases pending before the board of commissioners which Graham, Lambert and Jure refuse to "O. K."

Economy is right and proper in any public office, and the people have a perfect right to know how their money is being spent. But penuriousness and absolute unfairness in holding back from an official that which is justly due him for the performance of his sworn duty, is not the spirit of the people of Licking county.

Dr. Legge's bills are not only within the law, but are less than the limit which he could legally charge, and D. L. Pigg, the Democratic commissioner, whom Jure succeeded had no hesitation in signing his "O. K." to the bills presented, remarking on several occasions that "Legge was saving the county money." But Graham would not see it in that way, and Lambert did as Graham told him, with the result that Dr. Legge has received nothing for time taken from his practice to attend to the last seven or eight coroner's cases. Conscientious people who know both of them, esteem Dr. Legge as equally honest as Graham.

An instance will suffice to make plain Graham and Lambert's position. A decomposed body of a suicide was found in July at the foot of German street and buried. After being interred for some time, a person came to Newark for the purpose of identifying the remains by a peculiar break of the the bones of one leg. Coroner Legge went to the cemetery, accompanied by another prominent Newark physician, and had the grave opened. He got down into the grave, reeking with corruption, and scraped the flesh from the bones of the leg to satisfy all concerned as to the identity of the dead man. The physician who accompanied him remarked at the time "I wouldn't do that for $100."

"Well, but I have to," replied Dr. Legge.

For this work he sent in a bill for $10.00 which Graham and Lambert promptly turned down.

Dr. Legge's friends, and they are legion over the county, know these things to be true and they are outspoken in condemnation of the methods of the two commissioners. Lambert is a tool of Graham's, and they believe that it is well to have a Democrat, of Joe Brownfield's type, on the board who wears nobody's yoke, and who will stand at all times for what is fair, honest and just in the expenditure of public money.

Party's Arrival in Newark Advertised Like a Cheap Circus—Herrick Introduces Fairbanks.

Senator Fairbanks, the vice presidential candidate who is touring Eastern Ohio today in the interest of B. G. Dawes' congressional candidacy in the Zanesville district, will reach Newark at 4:30 Monday afternoon, and will speak briefly at the Pan Handle station and will later stop at Pataskala on his way to Columbus.

There were two rival attractions billed for Newark Monday afternoon—one being the cattle show on West Main street, the other Senator C. W. Fairbanks' arrival. The methods of advertising the two attractions were exactly the reverse of what one would have expected, and the dignity of the meeting to be addressed by a United States Senator was made to suffer by driving about the streets, a dilapidated wagon on which was placarded a gaudy announcement of Fairbanks' appearance, to which attention was drawn by the ringing of an auction bell by the driver.

An Advocate telegram from Quaker City, O., says the Fairbanks train entered Ohio over the B. & O. early Monday morning. Sup. Bachelder of the B. & O., joining the train, as did B. G. Dawes.

JUMPED

From Fire Into a Cistern and When Rescued She Saved a Child from Cremation—Both May Die.

Findlay, Oct. 24.—While starting a fire with gasoline Sunday Mrs. Albert Lanning and her two-year-old child were perhaps fatally burned. With her clothing ablaze Mrs. Lanning rushed from the house and jumped into a cistern containing eight feet of water. Her screams brought Claud Swearing, a neighbor, who rescued her from the cistern. Her clothing was almost completely burned from her body.

After she was dragged from the cistern Mrs. Lanning remembered her child, which was asleep in a baby buggy near the stove. She rushed into the house and found the child's clothing ablaze. She pulled the babe from the buggy and with her hands beat out the flames. The act saved the child's life for the time, though, in addition to frightful burns on her body, Mrs. Lanning's hands were badly blistered.

What to do with the copper pennies taken in by the street railway companies is getting to be more and more of a problem in English cities. In London many of these coins are disposed of in five-shilling packages to hotels on dober places where change is needed, but much remains to be disposed of otherwise.

WASHING WITHOUT WATER

Is Like Trying to Get Rid of Dandruff Without Herpicide.

Did you ever see any one trying to wash themselves without soap or water? If you did what would you say of him?

It is every bit as foolish to try to get rid of dandruff and to prevent baldness by feeding the germs which cause it, with Cantharides, Vasoline, Glycerine and similar substances which form the principal ingredients of most so-called Hair Vigors.

Newbro's Herpicide is successful because it attacks and kills the parasitic germ which feeds on the hair roots. It is the original and only genuine anti-germicide manufactured.

One Penny Per Second.

A new and ingenious piece of mechanism has been devised by the secretary of the London hospital for a purpose not unfamiliar at that institution. A clock face bearing an attention compelling statement that the hospital costs a penny per second to maintain and inviting the visitor to take on the cost of the hospital on to his shoulders for one second contains a small automatic machine by which the clock hand is advanced one second when the penny is dropped in.

The secretary hopes shortly to add a gramophone to his new toy which shall say "Thank you" for every gift, preferably in the king's voice.—London Mail.

An Unhappy Millionaire.

Those who know him most intimately say that the present head of the Rothschild family is one of the unappetizing of men. When Heinrich Heine visited him one day he found the banker in such a mood that he asked him if he were ill.

"I am not ill. I am crazy," was the reply. "I will never believe that you are crazy," said Heine, "until I see you throwing a money out of the window."

"Ah," said Rothschild, with almost a shout, "I am crazy because I do not throw my money out of the window."

ENDERBY'S WAY

By SIDNEY H. COLE

Copyright, 1904, by T. C. McClure

It was eminently characteristic of Enderby. He had known Miss Carmichael scarcely three months, but to Enderby's mind time was not always measured by the clock.

They were walking homeward from the opera. Miss Carmichael had insisted that they walk. It was a perfect night, and the distance home was short. When they entered the quiet street where Miss Carmichael lived Enderby fell into a brown study. The girl beside him was talking in sprightly fashion of Nibelungen and Rhine maidens, all of which was lost to Enderby's ears. They had reached the substantial Carmichael residence when Enderby came suddenly from his reticent silence—so suddenly, indeed, that he interrupted the girl in the middle of a sentence.

"Look here," said he, "I'm a pretty steady going sort. I've a fair income and a steadily growing clientele. I want an establishment of my own. Why wouldn't it be a good idea for us to marry?"

Miss Carmichael was so thoroughly astounded that she found no reply until they had reached the top step and Enderby was struggling with the latch-key.

"Good gracious!" was all she managed to gasp even then.

"I mean it," said Enderby. "Think it over if you like. I don't necessarily expect my answer right now."

"Good night, Mr. Enderby," she said rather coolly, and the door swung shut behind her.

Enderby strode down the street toward the club with never a qualm in his mind and never a tremor beneath his immaculate shirt front, but that was Enderby's way.

After that he saw Miss Carmichael as usual and for several weeks made no allusion to the matter. At first the girl was furtively uneasy in his presence, but as the weeks went by and he said nothing more she regained her usual composure.

One late March evening as they sat before a blazing fire in the big hall Enderby suddenly took up the conversation where it had ended weeks before.

"Have you thought it over?" said he.

Now, this question was entirely irrelevant to the talk of the moment.

"Have I thought what over?" Miss Carmichael asked.

"Marrying me," said Enderby tersely. "I'm a very practical man, not romantic and that sort of thing, you know. Still, I flatter myself I'd make a fairly good husband. You'd have a house and servants very much like this establishment here."

THE AGENT ROSE FROM THE GRAVEL, SPUTTERING PROFANE INVECTIVE.

Miss Carmichael's eyes opened wide. Was ever a girl wooed in such cold blooded fashion? she wondered. She spoke calmly, yet her voice was not as firm as she intended.

"Mr. Enderby, I thoroughly respect you, but as for marrying you"—

She paused, and Enderby went on. "Perhaps you want to think it over a little longer. That will be all right. I'm not one of the impatient sort. Good night."

He slipped on his overcoat, took his hat and stick and departed, leaving the girl divided between amazement and wrath.

Spring was well advanced before Enderby broached the subject again. It was one evening just as he was about to depart from the Carmichaels, and it was with the usual abruptness.

"Have you decided to marry me yet?" said he.

Miss Carmichael looked at him steadily, and this time her voice was very firm.

"No, Mr. Enderby, I have not. Nor do I think I ever shall decide to marry you."

"That's all right," said he.

At the door he turned.

"If you should change your mind let me know."

To this day Miss Carmichael is undecided whether the tears she shed were of mirth or of anger. She felt certain this was the end of it. But Enderby came as heretofore to take her driving or to the theater or to vespers on a pleasant Sunday. His manner was quite unchanged. It was as if nothing whatever had happened.

Summer came, and the Carmichaels left the city for their pretty country place in a quiet village. Every second Saturday Enderby came down to dine with them. The portly head of the house of Carmichael entertained a genuine and outspoken liking for the reserved young man, and Mrs. Carmichael was voluble in his praises.

Miss Carmichael said nothing, but she recognized some potent fascination about this strange, reticent man and his stranger method of wooing. Sometimes it amused her. Sometimes it angered her. And yet his plain words and his frank strength appealed to her more strongly than she cared to admit. What manner of man was this? she asked herself countless times, and each time a definite answer was wanting.

That Saturday afternoon Miss Carmichael was alone in the house. At 4 o'clock a tree agent came to the door and by persistent efforts to sell his goods was making himself very obnoxious. At that juncture Enderby came up the walk. He heard the voices in the hall and took in the situation at a glance. He laid a hand none too gentle on the agent's shoulder.

"You're annoying the lady," said Enderby severely.

"Is that any of your business?" said the man, with heated insolence.

"None at all," said Enderby cheerfully, whereupon he took the man by the collar, marched him to the porch and helped his undignified retreat to the gravel walk.

The agent rose from the gravel, sputtering profane invective. Enderby started down the steps.

"Haven't had enough, eh?" said he, and something in his tone and expression forced upon the irate agent's understanding a realization of the better part of valor. He fled the field in inglorious haste. Enderby returned to the hall.

"Oh," said Miss Carmichael in tones of relief, "he was positively insulting! I'm so glad you came."

"That's all right," said Enderby.

And then—perhaps something in her voice suggested the course—Enderby tempted fate once more.

"Going to marry me?" he said.

Miss Carmichael laughed hysterically.

"Of course I am, you funny man," she said. "How on earth can I help myself?"

Enderby looked puzzled.

"You're quite sure you want to?" he asked doubtfully.

"Very, very sure, dear," said Miss Carmichael gravely.

"Good!" Good enough!" said Enderby, with hearty satisfaction. It was Enderby's way.

Honey Making Wasps.

The card making wasp of Brazil, it is said, manufactures a honey the use of which is not without danger, as it occasions vertigo. In South America large quantities of honey are collected from the nests built in trees by an insect which is supposed to belong to the bee tribe. Then there are the ham-buro, whose honey whole towns in Ceylon go into the woods to gather. There are also in our own country ants which construct underground nests, but their chief peculiarity is that in addition to the ordinary inhabitants of an ant's nest there is a special class called honey bearers. These live entirely in the nest and receive the food collected by the workers, store it up in their globular abdomens, which are capable of great expansion, and regurgitate it in the form of honey when any of their comrades desire to be fed. They are, in fact, merely living honey bags. Another species of honey ant has been found in Australia, and a species of coccus in India provides itself with a small quantity of honey.

Wellington and His Steward.

Even the "iron" Duke of Wellington had his difficulties with the servant question. Chaplain George R. Gleig wrote of the great soldier: "As to his table, it was in every respect such as became his position. His wines were excellent, though his cellars contained but a scanty supply at any given time. The oldest could not have been more than a couple of months in his possession. Of his reasons for thus acting he made no secret. 'At one time,' he said, 'I used to do as others do—gave my orders to the house steward and handed him the money to pay the bills as he presented them to me. This went on for a year or more, when to my surprise and disgust I got letters from tradesmen humbly begging that I would settle their accounts, which had been long standing. I found on inquiry that the fellow had been gambling with my money, leaving my creditors unpaid. From that day to this I have made it a point to pay my own bills and to keep my accounts with tradesmen as short as possible.'"

The Return of a Projectile.

The question is often asked, "Will an object thrown into the air, either from the hand, a volcano or even when shot from a rifle or cannon, return to the earth with the same initial velocity with which it left?" The answer is: A projectile thrown vertically upward into the air will return with a velocity less than the initial. In the air the accelerating force which acts during the descent is not equal to the retarding force during ascent. The retarding force is the same for the weight of the projectile and the atmospheric resistance, both acting in the same direction. In the descent the accelerating force is the difference of these two, since they act in opposite directions. In a vacuum it would be different. In that case, the weight of the projectile being the only force acting, this force would generate in each foot of the ball exactly the same amount of velocity that it had lost in its passage upward. Thus the final would find it with a speed equal to its initial velocity.—St. Louis Republic.

THE A. A. Griggs COMPANY

THE RAILWAYS

Will Fight B. & O.

Because the B. & O. railroad sold against the Shelly land for $174, the amount alleged to be due the company on an excursion contract given last summer a number of the friends of the land seek to retaliate by petitioning council to enact an ordinance which will compel the B. & O. to place all rights at all crossings in Shelly at the commercial rate. The business men of the town also threaten to divert all shipping business to the Big Four.—Mt. Vernon Pioneer.

B. & O. Track Inspection.

The annual fall track inspection of the B. & O. railroad will take place about November 8 or 10, and it is confidently expected that the report of the inspection will show both the main line of the Newark division and the O. & L. K. to have been greatly improved in condition last fall. The annual report of Division Engineer H. B. Dick giving the estimates for the improvement program for the entire Newark division for next year has been completed and has been submitted to the higher officials. No work of especial magnitude or importance is recommended in the report for next year, as the work either completed or begun during the past few months will have brought the road to a condition where the heavy expenditures for track improvements which have been made in the last year or two will not have to be repeated.

Railway Notes.

The air brakes inspection car of the Pennsylvania lines is now in Denison, where it has been for several days.

Locomotives on some western railroads are to be fitted with adjustable electric flashlights by which trains approaching each other on curves in the mountains may give warning by throwing rays into the air. This device may prove a valuable one, but nothing will completely avert the danger that exists when trains running in opposite directions try to pass on the same track.

Control of Railway Sought.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 24.—A report has gained currency in New York to the effect that the Atlantic Coast Line, and not the Louisville and Nashville Railroad company, is seeking control of the Louisville, Henderson and St. Louis Railroad company. The Louisville and Nashville and the Henderson are held in certain quarters as competitive lines, and it was with a view to preventing establishment of such grounds that the Atlantic Coast Line seeks the Henderson, according to the views of prominent local financiers.

GRANVILLE

ANNIVERSARY OF MR. AND MRS. JONES' WEDDING.

Three Hundred Granvillians Attended Reception Saturday Evening—A Notable Event.

Granville, O. Oct. 24.—The crowning social event which the house guests and friends of Mr. and Mrs. J. Stephen Jones have enjoyed during the past week of continued gaiety took place on Saturday evening, when Mr. and Mrs. Jones celebrated their twentieth wedding anniversary by giving a reception during the afternoon and evening in "Monomy Place," their beautiful summer home in Granville.

Mrs. Jones, who is the only daughter of Dr. Alfred Follett belongs to one of Granville's oldest and most prominent families, while Mr. Jones is a wealthy coal operator of Chicago. He has always taken a great interest in Granville and in everything pertaining to her welfare, and has made a number of handsome donations to Denison university. At the reception Saturday afternoon and evening there were over three hundred callers. At the afternoon function Mrs. Jones received the congratulations of her friends in a handsome gown of velvet, and in a beautiful sequin gown in the evening. All of the members of the house party appeared in beautiful toilet.

The spacious rooms were fragrant with the perfume of American beauties, and chrysanthemums, which, in their profusion and beauty, were artistically arranged in the various rooms.

In the upper hall the orchestra was stationed, and the delightful music rendered added much to the charm of the occasion. In the lower hall punch was served by young ladies, the friends of the host and hostess.

In the dining room chocolate and coffee were served.

In the evening the scene of most merriment and charm was the barn, where the guests, young and old, repaired to dance to the inspiring music furnished by the orchestra.

During both afternoon and evening opportunity was given the guests of admiring the many and elegant gifts received by Mr. and Mrs. Jones on their anniversary day, which, shared by them so generously and delightfully with their friends, could not have been more entirely successful and charming.

What Have We Done Today?

We shall do so much in the years to come, But what have we done today?

We shall give our gold in a princely sum, But what have we done today?

We shall hit the heart and dry the tear, We shall plant a hope in the place of fear.

We shall speak the words of love and cheer, But what have we done today?

We shall be so kind in the after-while, But what have we done today?

We shall bring to each lonely life a smile, But what have we done today?

We shall give to truth a grander birth, And to steadfast faith a deeper worth.

We shall feed the hungering souls of earth, But what have we done today?

We shall reap such joys in the by and by, But what have we done today?

We shall build us mansions in the sky, But what have we done today?

'Tis sweet in idle dreams to bask, But here and now do we our tasks?

Yes, this is the thing our soul must ask, But what have we done today?

MIDGET MAYOR GETS JUGGED AT MARIETTA

One Alonzo Weed is Again Behind the Bars.

For a Time His Honor Made Newark His Place of Residence—Wreck From Drink.

Alonzo Weed, the notorious "Midget Mayor" of Amesbury, who for a time was employed at the Everett glass works in Newark, is now sojourning in Marietta, and is "putting up" at the city prison. He was taken in charge by members of the police force Friday night, being found dead to the world from the effects of strong drink. Weed was arraigned before the Mayor or Saturday. He pleaded guilty to being intoxicated and was fined $1 and costs, amounting to $6.25. He was ordered to be confined at hard labor until the fine and costs are paid or otherwise discharged by due process of law.

A Marietta message says Amesbury's chief executive does not appear to be physically fit. He is shaking as with daisy and stutters so that he can hardly speak, but his wit is still sharp.

Weed said that he is still Mayor of Amesbury and is only taking a vacation. In response to a question he replied that he had left a "Jackass to look after the office." He desired to make no statement before he was sentenced except to say that he was "willing to take a little walk" if he were given the opportunity. He said that he had been in Marietta since Thursday.

Weed was a glassworker by occupation. He is almost a dwarf in stature and was elected Mayor of Amesbury as the result of a joke. An appeal to Governor Nash to remove him from office brought the reply: "You have made your bed and you can lie in it."

Mayor Weed has visited Columbus and other towns and was arrested and rearrested. He has served workhouse sentences. He has spent time in most of Ohio's jails. He has been interviewed and written up until he has a reputation that gets him all the drinks he wants wherever he may be, and that seems to be his only ambition.

REWARD

COMES TO NEWARK POLICE FOR LOCKHART'S CAPTURE.

Man Wanted in Indiana for Violating His Parole Was Found Working in West Newark.

George Lockhart, who is wanted at Michigan City prison in Indiana, for violating his parole from that institution, where he had been sent for grand larceny, was captured in Newark about 5:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, at the Wehrle foundry, where he was working.

Officer E. B. Ocleby of the Indiana prison, came to Newark Friday afternoon, and had a picture of Lockhart, Chief of Police Sheridan detailed Officer Wm. Howard on the case Saturday morning, and in the afternoon Howard came in with his man, who was taken back by Ogleby on Sunday morning. There was a $25 reward offered for Lockhart's capture, which will be paid to the Newark police.

He Couldn't Cure 'Em. The man sitting beside the minister was somewhat slowly dressed, but quiet enough in manner. They had struck up an acquaintance and were chatting affably on various subjects. Perhaps it was because they were the only two men in the car who were not reading newspapers. The minister noticed this and noticed also that it was the sporting news which chiefly interested his fellow passengers. "It is deplorable," he said, "that horse racing has such a fascination for all classes of people. One would think that sad experience would cure most of them of their infatuation, but apparently it does not. I fear this form of gambling is on the increase." "I think it is," said the other man, "and I don't see how it is going to be stopped. I know I've done all I could to cure people of the betting habit." "Indeed," said the minister eagerly, "By winning as much of their money as I could. I'm a bookmaker."—New York Press.

BULLET IN LEG

REVOLVER DISCHARGED IN HIS COAT POCKET.

Ball Travels Nearly from Hip to Knee. Twelve New Precincts in Fairfield County.

Lancaster, O., Oct. 24.—D. B. Thompson of North Columbus street, driller for W. C. Stratton, the gas well contractor, was the victim of a painful accident at the Criggs well near Junction City. Mr. Thompson had put on his raincoat and by some means a revolver in the right hand pocket was discharged, the bullet passing downward, entering his right leg below the hip joint and passing under the skin to a point several inches above the knee, where it lodged. He went to a physician in Junction City who failed to extract the bullet and after arriving here he had the wound properly looked after and the bullet removed. While the wound was painful it is not necessarily dangerous and the patient will no doubt soon be about again.

Under the new law every incorporated village polling 50 votes in entitled to a separate voting place and the Fairfield county Board of Elections has provided 12 new polling precincts in the county, including Ananias, Sugar Grove, Bremen, Rushville, New Salem, Littlepolis, Carroll, Baltimore, Pleasantville (2), and one in the First ward, Lancaster. This makes a total of 40 precincts in Fairfield county.

RECEIPTS

OF KING'S DAUGHTER'S TAG DAY OVER $450.

Over $100 Ahead of Tag Day a Year Ago—Money Used For Works of Charity.

The Whatsoever Circle of King's Daughters, under whose management the arrangements for "Tag Day" last Saturday were made, have not yet completed the making up of their report, but it is known that the net receipts will be in the neighborhood of $450.

The Sunshine, Brightening, and Mary Wab Memorial Circles co-operated and assisted the Whatsoever circle in making the day a great success, from a financial standpoint.

The receipts for "Tag Day" in 1902, were $317, so that this year's are far in excess of last year's receipts. This money will all be used in charity work during the winter. The King's Daughters do charity work of a practical character.
